DIED OF A BROKEN HEART.

The Remarkable Case of Mrs. Mary Agnes Wolf of New York.

A remarkable instance where death followed a "broken heart" was recorded at the coroner's office Thursday. Mrs. Mary Agnes Wolf, 32 years old, died at her home on Wednesday evening. Dr. J. A. Sanders, who had last attended her, wrote a certificate that death was due to inanition and heart trouble and excessive grief. The board of health rejected the certificate, and it came to the coroner's office.

At the home of the dead woman it was said that she lived with her husband, George Wolf, an employee of the Metropolitan Traction company. Mary Melvin, the aged mother of the dead woman, had shared their humble apartments since the time of their marriage, five years ago. The mother and daughter had been constant companions all their lives. Melvin, who was an Englishman, died when Mrs. Wolf was an infant.

Last October Mrs. Melvin was stricken with a slow but fatal disease. Day and night the daughter waited upon her till her death, in June last.

For a few days Mrs. Wolf wept incessantly. Then a strange melancholy came over her. She ceased speaking of her dead parent, yet there was evidence of terrible inward grief. Her pining soon began to tell upon her health. Her husband talked with her about the folly of keeping the memory of her dead mother in mind, but she would not be consoled. She stopped going out and gradually ceased to partake of food. After a time she became so weak that she was obliged to take to her bed.

The husband returned nightly from his labor and sat by her bedside, imploring her to cheer up and live for his sake. Although she was sound of mind, she refused to pay any attention to her husband's importunities. Dr. Sanders found the woman suffering from no organic troubles and said that she would recover if properly nourished. He recommended that she be removed to a hospital, where she could better regain her strength. His suggestion was not heeded, because Mrs. Wolf declared she wished to die in the bed in which her mother had died. The doctor told her that he could do nothing more for her unless she took sustenance. She did not answer him, but shook her head. On Wednesday she died.

Mrs. Wolf will be buried in Calvary cemetery today. Dr. Cuff of the coroner's office said Mrs. Wolf's death was due to a broken heart. He said this was an instance where the woman's failure to pour out her grief in tears had brought on the disorders that caused her death. —New York Tribune.

INGRATITUDE OF NATIONS.

An Instance of It Toward a Hero of the Franco-German War.

A pathetic story of national ingratitude has been going the rounds of the London papers, which is interesting enough to be repeated, especially as it concerns those days of intense interest during which Paris was last in siege. Publicity has been given it by the fact that the hero of the incident has just gone to a French hospital in poverty, there to die. The Pall Mall Gazette thus tells the tale:

"When the German lines in the autumn of 1870 were gradually closing their box constrictor grasp round the doomed capital, Durnof was the hero of the hour. An experienced aeronaut, who had three times been dashed into the sea and had run many other narrow escapes, he proposed, with his balloon, Neptune, to carry a mail out of Paris and to run the gauntlet of the beleaguering armies. At daybreak on Sept. 23 he set out on his adventurous journey, the director of the posts assuring him as he handed in the dispatches and the pigeons that his courage and devotion would meet with a splendid reward. Durnof succeeded in his task and landed safe and sound at Evreux, but the poor old Neptune was never fit for another ascent."

Twenty-two years elapsed, but the unhappy aeronaut never received a penny from successive governments. Even his claim for the value of his balloon, which had been used till it was destroyed by the military authorities, failed to obtain the slightest recognition. After a couple of decades he got the bronze medal accorded to all who carried dispatches by balloon, and last year a small monthly grant was made, which barely sufficed to keep him from starvation. Swindlers and impostors of all kinds laid the foundation of future fame and fortune in the siege of Paris, but the first man who opened up communications between the imprisoned inhabitants and the outer world seems likely to die in dishonor and despair.

To Monopolize the Shopping Business.

A company has been organized in New York which will try to monopolize the shopping business. It has made an arrangement with the Broadway cable cars, and it is said, will try to secure the same right on all the other lines, for the use of their front platforms as news and confectionery stands. On each car it will place a uniformed agent, who will sell the things on hand and will also take orders from the passengers for anything that they may want, from "collar buttons to a dress." The passenger has simply to tell the boy what he wants, and when he boards the car again the commission will be executed. The company proposes to make arrangements with a number of large establishments in the city to fill all orders that it brings in at the lowest possible rates. —New York Times.

The Crater Collapsed.

The great lake in Kilauwa overflowed its banks on July 8, and on the 12th the lava fell 270 feet in 12 hours, causing the banks to fall in on all sides and encircling about eight acres of the floor of the crater. The falling of the banks was going on all day and far into the night and produced a sight indescribably grand. —Honolulu Letter.

"America's

Men and Women."

My Name is Wilson; I do an insurance business on LaSalle street, in Chicago Ill., and I live in Evanston, Ill. Evanston is what was originally a scattering population on a pretty point on Lake Michigan, esteemed years ago far from the city of Chicago, but now one of the varied towns which may go within it by vote of the population.

I am married and have a wife and one child. That child is a boy (I suppose I should feel the same solicitude if it was a girl), and I have a father's natural fancies as to what must be the best thing to give that child the right kind of intelligence, and so divert his course that he may succeed in life. I have studied a great deal upon the subject. My own experience would not be of great value, because I have succeeded only to the limit of the average man and am barely established; still, I own the house and lot upon which I live, and am feeling perfectly safe in meeting the exigencies of the year. I want the boy to take a broader view than I did, to be a bigger man in the world. I have studied how to teach him to do that, and he has done pretty well, as far as the preliminaries go. Now, I have thought over what I should say to him and have sometimes been puzzled. I could not very well tell him what to do. I wanted to tell him what I needed, but what I did not learn myself when I was of his age, and what my father did not know how to tell me, or else was not thoughtful enough to do so. I wanted to tell him how to follow the example of those who have succeeded at the present time and under the circumstances which ordinarily affect a young man struggling in this Republic established on this comparatively new world to-day. I wanted to tell him just what he had better do to get along well, and to point out to him what had been done by the people who were successful at the present time.

Of course, the record of the people of any time past would not be of so much value, because circumstances must necessarily have been different when they were alive. I feel confident, though, that if I could learn, some way and somehow, what the people who are so successful to-day have done and how they did it, I could give to my boy such advice as would make his own life at least as far removed from failure as justified by the natural ability he may possess. I looked around for some authority which I might consult in order to give him the facts most essential with this idea of mine in mind, but I could find none until I discovered that a great publishing firm in Chicago had decided to bring out a book giving the photographs of all the people who are prominent in America to-day. Here was what I wanted. The book, as I have learned, is going to be published in 16 parts, 16 pages to each, with a recent photograph on each page of some active leading American man or woman of to-day, while underneath appears the story of that same person's life—the story telling what that person did, and how the ends attained were eventually accomplished. Here was what I wanted; here was what I needed in various ways; here was what I was certainly seeking in order to obtain the information with which to educate my boy and secure for him that knowledge which will give him a source of thought and make him prominent in the world.

I have the first sheets of this work. It is a graphic story of America's Greatest Men and Women, told in each instance on a single page underneath a photograph of the recent date, which conveys to the eye an idea of what that person is. To me the photograph tells even more than the suggestive record beneath; and yet it is odd how in each instance the correct story corresponds with the expression upon the face. I know very little about this new feature of the newspaper people; I know nothing about the publishers and their expectations, but I do know this: that if the series so begun should be continued to its practical, ordinary good sense end—and I don't care whether that will include 200 or 700 of America's Greatest Men and Women, which is the title of the book—I do know this, that for the ordinary, active and alert business man—I will certainly say far more for the student or the literary man, or the politician or the statesman—for all these I will say it will be simply the most valuable and the most remarkable book produced in modern history. The wonder is that some one has not thought of it before. Yet no one seems to have done so since the days of Plutarch. Plutarch knew something. That shrewd old fellow knew that all who would get out of the drift, all who would accomplish great things, wanted to know every detail of the lives of those who had better luck than those points. I only know that there is produced a second Plutarch's Lives, that its biographies are shrewd, graphic and curt, and written without bias and without prejudice. I only know that there was a Plutarch—God bless the old fellow—and that there is this modern work.

This is the work I am going to give to my boy. I am going to make him read it thoroughly. The work is announced as consisting of 16 Parts, with 16 pages and 16 photographs in each part, and when bound, the whole series will make a great volume of 256 pages, the like of which has never been equalled. It is the story of the personal character of the men and women who are making the nation's history at this particular time. What a work this is! Do you imagine that I would miss it for my boy, or, incidentally, for myself?

"SASSIETY" AND VICE.

The Right and the Wrong Way of Keeping Scandals Out of the Newspapers.

It would be hard indeed if we could not get a laugh out of all these horrid scandals that savor society's face, and it has come at last—broad, hearty and irrepressible.

The good people of Newport—not the old Newporters, but the people who have followed in their train—are so incensed by the reports published about the misdoings of the Four Hundred that they have organized a Society For the Suppression of Newspaper Notoriety.

Dear, comical, old Ellbridge T. Gerry is at the head of the new society, and it looks as if he would have time to attend to nothing else.

The purpose of the society is to prevent the publication in New York and Boston (other cities don't count) of matters that are purely personal to the Four Hundred and of no public interest.

If Mrs. Stevens' maid takes advantage of Mr. Tom Cushing's valet, that is legitimate news, and no objection will be made to its publication, but if Mrs. Stevens herself should cast sheep's eyes at Mr. Cushing, or if Mr. A. should compromise Mr. B.'s wife, or Mr. C. sue his wife for divorce, or Mrs. D. go wrong with a dude—these are matters that concern nobody but the culprits themselves and their most intimate friends.

No wonder the laugh is loud and long at these good people's expense.

Did it never occur to dear old Gerry and his younger friends on the social-togger slide that a "Society For the Suppression of Vice in the Four Hundred" would cut at the very root of the evil of which they complain, whereas the step they are taking now can only trim off some of the topmost boughs?

There is without doubt a certain amount of reckless newspaper writing going on which every one abominates—and every one reads.

This writing keeps pace with the doings of the day. It is often inaccurate, vulgar and malicious; but, on the other hand, there is so much social evil doing that never finds its way into print at all that the score is pretty even up to date.

I could mention the names of hundreds of prominent New York and Boston families who have never had cause to complain of a single line or word printed to their derogation.

And why? Simply because they have never given the opportunity.

While not making a plea for the society reporter or the scandal loving editor I am sufficiently familiar with their methods to know that they would just as lief print good news of prominent people as bad news.

Bad news sells better than good news, of course. In times of war, tempest, famine, fire and flood the demand for newspapers doubles and trebles.

So it does in times of great social disaster.

The collapse of Duncan, Sherman & Co., the failure of Grant & Ward, the elopement of Herbert Pell and Mrs. Kate Knochman, the divorce of Mr. and Mrs. Fernando Xynaga and the subsequent marriage of both, the Drayton scandal, the Vanderbilt imbroglio, the Gould fiasco—all these stirring incidents in social life, and thousands of others for which I haven't space, constitute the gossip of the day which is on every one's lips, and which can no more be kept out of the newspapers than a duck can be kept out of water or Ward McAllister out of print.

That is why I advise kind old Gerry and his pretty playmates to begin to trim ship before they yell that they are overpowered by water.

I cannot predict any success for the new society with the object of suppressing bad news about fashionable people. Murder will out—so will adultery, drunkenness, cheating at cards, dishonorable indebtedness and all the other vices to which flesh is heir.

As I said before, a society that condemns publicity has only to ponder for a moment upon all it does that is not printed and be grateful on its marrow bones that such matters are still personal and have not yet become of public interest.—Cholly Knickerbocker in New York Recorder.

AN INTERESTING SLAB.

It Marks the Boundary Between Mexico and the United States.

Under the direction of the boundary survey commission the old marble monument which since 1849 has marked the dividing line between the United States and Mexico at the coast has been brought to the city to be dressed up. For years that monument has been a point of interest and has been visited by thousands of citizens and strangers. Each has apparently felt that no one would believe he or she had been there if some portion of the slab were not carried away to be offered in evidence on all occasions.

The result has been that the marble has been chipped and defaced until its original form is almost lost. It is because of all this that the slab was brought to the city. To work out the effacements the surface would have to be worked down two inches. When redressed, the stone will again be placed in position, but this time it will be protected by a fence of steel pickets. The enclosure will be 12 feet square. The pickets will be 8 feet high, the tops sharply pointed and leaning inward, after the device of some rattaps, so that while it might be possible for an active person to climb in it would require a first class acrobat to climb out over those curving pickets. Besides this a new law makes it a penal offense to mutilate the monuments.

At Tia Juana a similar slab will be erected on the old brick foundation in National avenue, which has long been a landmark there. The Tia Juana monument will be of granite instead of marble, and it will be inclosed with steel pickets, like the one at the coast line.—San Diego Sun.

MONTGOMERY.

Correspondence ARGUS and MERCURY.

—On Tuesday last, some tough Montgomeryites drove some cattle down to Goldenham. The party consisted of four young men, and on their return became rather inebriated, and on reaching Berea Station found three Italians at work on the P., P. and B. Railroad, under the supervision of an Irish boss. The toughs soon picked a quarrel and a fight ensued. Stones, clubs, etc., filled the air for a time, when the poor Italians sought a place of refuge. They went into the house of Mr. Thomas Harris near by, but were followed by the aggressive toughs, who were forced back by Mr. Harris's revolver. The superintendent of the gang was not in the fight, but one of the dagos received an ugly scalp wound. This gang of villagers is well known, and they had better quiet down or they will be quieted down.

UP THE MIDLAND.

A Prophecy Fulfilled—Suspended Publication—Newburgh's Wretched Fair Grounds—The Winner Litigation—Low Prices for Wheat—Too Many Fish and Game Protectors.

—In this column, more than a month ago, I remarked that an old Delaware River raftsman predicted no rain of any consequence until about the equinox. He was right this time. If the managers of agricultural fairs or like gatherings would skip from the 15th to the 25th of September, they would in all probability strike better weather. Keep watch and see.

—The Democrats of Delaware county have placed in nomination S. N. Wheeler, of Hancock, for Assemblyman. Mr. Wheeler will make a good run, and the Republicans of that town will get their knives out of their boots and go at Cartwright for defeating their man Gould. Politics is a dirty mess at the best.

—Delaware county's only daily paper, the Dispatch, published at Sidney, has suspended publication. This leaves Bird, of the Record, master of the field for a time at least. The Record is a good paper, and the people in and about Sidney seem to know it.

—The case of McDams, Mosher & Co. against John Gray, of Colchester, for throwing stones at the McDams house, resulted in the complete discomfiture of the complainants.

—Being along the Hudson when the Orange County Fair was held, I attended it, Thursday. It had rained the day before and the grounds were in wretched condition. The grounds are I think without exception the worst I have ever seen in a fair held on and don't come within twenty rows of apple trees of being as good as the old grounds were at Newburgh. They may possibly be fixed up so as to be presentable, but it will cost a great deal of money to do it. It is too bad that the society should have to locate permanently on such a spot.

—It is rumored that James Schoonmaker, of Liberty, has secured another indictment against ex-Sheriff Winner; it is also claimed that Winner made an effort to have Schoonmaker indicted, but failed in that. It looks now as if Mr. Winner's persecutors would let up only when they are dead, or get their money back. A great wrong was done the late Dan R. Bonnell in the statement that that gentleman suicided through fear of Mr. Winner. If these penny-anters cannot be brilliant let them at least be honorable. The Winner failure caused the loss of a great deal of money, and now the lawyers are getting what was left.

—The price of wheat is way down, and flour never was lower than now. Bran and middlings have been dropping off at a fearful rate for the past two weeks. Just as soon as the millers and elevator men get the wheat out of the farmers' hands then the price will go up with a rush. They are the colored gentlemen in the fence, who are running the price down, so that they may buy cheaper. The consumer ought to lay in a good supply now.

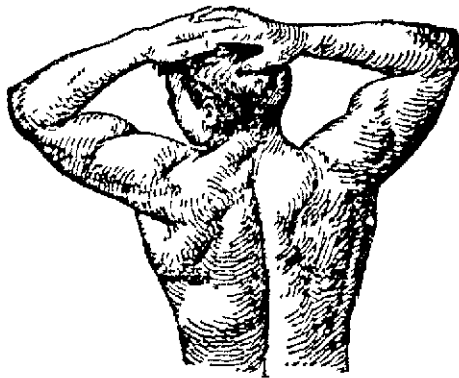

—Depend upon it, the number of special fish and game protectors in New York State will be somewhat less next year than this. They have been having a good long pull at this public text, and over sixty of them, all told, State and special, have been doing their best to wrest hard earned money from the people. It is really too bad to see some poor wretch, whose flour barrel is empty, and his wife bedridden, pulled up by one of these special protectors and robbed of his last penny, that the protector may live in ease and idleness, and the majesty of the law be upheld. Away with our fast becoming odious fish laws. The most of people want to see our game and fish properly protected, but for the past year we have been getting protection with a vengeance. When the Fish Commission deposed the late Mr. Walley, it should have made a clean sweep and got rid of about nineteen more. It is a lamentable fact that too many of these fellows can't see a small trout through a two-dollar bill, and that sum from the wealthy fisherman may settle a wrong that if done by a poor man, might cost him his entire holdings. Let us have the same game laws for the rich as the poor and let those in authority see to it that they are enforced without fear or favor.

RUSTICS.

For Over Fifty Years.

Mrs. Winslow's SOOTHING SYRUP has been used by millions of mothers for their children while teething. It is a safe and reliable remedy for all ailments of children, and is sold by all druggists throughout the world. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's SOOTHING SYRUP."

FEEL LIKE A NEW MAN

So says every one who has used Paskola, the great flesh-forming food. And why shouldn't they? Being artificially digested it virtually forces nourishment upon the system regardless of what may be the condition of the natural digestive organs. Further than this, it possesses the power to digest other foods in the stomach. It is therefore, little wonder that those who take it not only experience immediate relief from the distress which has heretofore followed their meals, but rapidly gain in weight.

Nothing equals it for building up sound healthy flesh, enriching the blood and imparting new strength. It is just the thing for thin, weak people who get no benefit from the food they eat and who are discouraged by the failure of medicine to help them.

Delicate stomachs cannot stand sickening oils and others fatty mixtures. Paskola has replaced them. It is easily taken and pleasant to the taste. Ask your druggist for a bottle and try it.

The practical results derived from the use of Paskola are well demonstrated by the following statements from a few of the many who have used it with entire satisfaction during the past thirty days:

Mr. A. Alexander, of Taylor, Texas, says: "I am now using the second bottle of Paskola and find myself greatly improved. My appetite is better than it has been for years, and since I have been using Paskola I have gained five (5) pounds."

Mrs. Fred Groves, of Malmville, Ohio, writes under date of August 16th, to the following effect: "When I began to take Paskola I did not think that it would do me any good and had made up my mind to quit using medicines and let nature take its course. I accidentally got hold of one of your little books and decided to give pre-digested food a trial. I have taken four bottles and never felt better in all my life. I do not know how much I have gained in flesh, but I do know that I can eat anything I want and sleep soundly at night. My friends all remark upon my improved appearance."

Dr. Alexander Hunt, of Mud River, Kentucky, has been testing the preparation in the case of his little granddaughter, two years old. The child was nothing but a skeleton when he commenced giving her Paskola, and in two weeks she gained nine pounds, and, in his own language, "is now fat, red and rosy." In fact she enjoys the best of health. Paskola is kept by all druggists and the Pre-Digested Food Co., No. 30 Keade street, New York, its proprietors, will be glad to supply a free pamphlet upon the subject of food and digestion upon application.

TUESDAY, SEPT. 25, 1894.

The Republican nomination for Congress in the Ulster-Dutchess-Putnam district, is conceded to the present Representative, Hon. Jacob LeFever.

The Republican County Convention is to be held at Goshen, Tuesday, Oct. 9. The Republican Congressional Convention will probably be held in Middletown the following day. None of the Democratic conventions have as yet been called.

The Department of Agriculture distributed, last year, through members of Congress, 7,704,943 packages of seeds, at a cost of $160,000. The seeds yielded a goodly crop of votes to Congressmen who planted them wisely in their districts, but as an aid to agriculture, the distribution of the seeds was worse than useless.

James Keegan, of Rockland county, is proxy for State Committeeman Barium, of this district, at the Saratoga convention. The Rockland county contest was referred to him to report which delegation was entitled to have its names on the preliminary roll and participate in the temporary organization of the convention.

A court martial has found Capt. Henry W. Plummer, the colored chaplain of the Ninth Cavalry, a colored regiment, guilty of drunkenness while on duty and sentenced him to dismissal from the service. The accused chaplain made the very astonishing defence that it was necessary to drink with the men in order to get their confidence, and that he made in a few occasions the mistake of "taking a drop too much."

MASONIC CONVENTION.

Exemplifying the secret work to Representatives of the Tenth Masonic District.

A number of representatives from the several lodges which comprise the Tenth Masonic District, met in convention in the spacious rooms of Hoffman Lodge, last evening. The object of the convention is the exemplification of the work by the Grand Lecturer, R. W. George H. Raymond, of New York, and the Assistant Grand Lecturer, P. M., R. W. Oldfield, of Stony Point Lodge, No. 313, of Haverstraw.

The former gentleman occupied the East and the latter officiated as Senior Deacon.

Ex-District Deputy Grand Master John B. Alliger, of Rondout Lodge, 343, was the Senior Warden, and W. M. G. Muller, of Goshen Lodge, the Junior Warden.

Dr. F. M. Cummins, of Warwick Lodge, acted in the capacity of Junior Deacon; S. S. Gowdrey, Esq., formerly of this city, was Senior Master of Ceremonies; C. B. N. Hull, of Livingston Manor Lodge, No. 791, was Secretary, and R. Patterson, of Standard Lodge, No. 711, of Monroe, was Treasurer.

The work of the First or Entered Apprentice degree was exemplified, last evening, in a most satisfactory manner.

This morning at 10 o'clock, the Second or Fellowcraft degree was taken up, and, at 2 o'clock this afternoon, the Third or Master Mason degree was exemplified.

The Grand Lecturer, Mr. Raymond, is well known in this city, having been a visitor to Hoffman Lodge for the past thirty years. Mr. Raymond, although in his seventy-first year, is a well preserved man, and the retentive powers of his memory are apparently not impaired by age. He has been prominent in Masonic circles for forty-three years, and has occupied the position of Grand Lecturer of the State of New York for the greater part of that time.

The Assistant Lecturer, Mr. R. W. Oldfield, is a Past Master of Stony Point Lodge. His work as Senior Deacon was perfect.

Among the prominent Masons present are:

Chas. F. Starek, Callicoon; Henry Kienrich, Callicoon; R. Potter, Monroe; D. H. Sprague, Monroe; A. W. Slack, Goshen; A. Voorhees, Livingston Manor; R. J. Brome, Monticello; J. G. Dunbar, Warwick; Geo. R. Wood, Warwick; F. J. Harden, Westtown; W. G. Hastings, Newburgh; Frank E. Woodin, Newburgh; P. A. Canfield, Rondout.

Women say that a meal tastes better when prepared by some one else, and that is just the reason why Simmons Liver Regulator is in such favor. It is already prepared in liquid and powder form. You don't need to make a tea. Another reason for this favor is that Simmons Regulator is better than Pills for Biliouness, Sick Headache, Constipation and Indigestion. Sample package powder, 25 cents.

DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION

Gaynor's Declination Regarded as Final—Much Talk of Whitney—Senator Hill Non-Committal—The Convention's Preliminary Session—Temporary Chairman Hill's Address.

BY UNITED PRESS.

SARATOGA, Sept. 25.—The Democrats' convention day opened cloudy, but the sun soon drove the clouds away.

Early this morning, beribboned workers of many organizations were astir. Crowds filled the streets and the big hotels and incoming trains added to the crowds.

Democratic leaders from all over the State, conferred with Senator Hill until long past midnight.

Judge Gaynor's refusal is accepted by most as final. Talk of Whitney is revived. It is pretty well understood that Hill does not want Whitney nominated, but if it were certain here that Whitney would accept there is little doubt that there would be a stampede in his direction.

Hill has freely discussed the merits of the different men whose names are mentioned, but so far has not indicated a preference for anyone.

The convention was called to order at 1:12 p. m. Senator Hill was chosen temporary chairman. He made a long address in which he ridiculed the professed confidence of the Republicans as empty brag and bluster and affirmed that with a united Democracy New York is a Democratic State. He denounced the Sherman silver purchase law as a panic-making device, and the McKinley act as the culmination of reckless and pernicious Republican legislation. He said that while the new tariff act was not in all respects satisfactory to him, it was a great improvement on McKinleyism, and if it was alleged that it favored one trust it was answer enough that the McKinley act which it repealed favored a dozen trusts. The address was heartily cheered.

After the appointment of the usual committees the convention at 2:38 adjourned until to-morrow.

A Boston Confession.

Sometimes it seems as if the New York and Chicago gibes at Boston and their notion of the sort of conversation common here are not so baseless as they usually seem. It is undoubtedly true that one young girl who told another the other day that she had read Emerson until she was tired of him and longed for something new and refreshing, was recommended by her friend to try Epictetus, because of his nice short sentences, and Kant's "Critique of Pure Reason," "because it sounds so much like Mrs. Blank's 'Science' lectures." —Boston Transcript

HOMEOPATHIC DOCTORS IN TOWN.

Forty-third Semi-Annual Session of the State Homeopathic Medical Society at the State Hospital—Welcomed by Dr. Talcott—Preliminary Business—Report of the Bureau of Health—A Smorgasbord.

The forty-third semi-annual session of the Homeopathic Medical Society of the State of New York began at the State Hospital in this city, to-day, and will be continued during to-day and to-morrow.

The meeting was held in the Amusement Hall of the hospital, the stage of which was banked with potted plants and presented a very beautiful and attractive appearance.

The meeting was called to order at 12 o'clock by Dr. Selden H. Talcott, who announced that he had received a telegram from the president of the association, Dr. G. M. Sly, who is detained abroad on account of the illness of his son at Geneva. The doctor introduced as chairman Dr. Elmer J. Bissell, of Rochester. The nomination was received with applause and Dr. Bissell, upon taking the chair, called upon Rev. Mr. Phelps to open the proceedings with a prayer.

Dr. Talcott then made an address of welcome, and gave a humorous resume of the advantages which the fine climate of Middletown affords the human family, particularly the insane, followed by an outline history of the origin and subsequent management of the State Hospital for the Insane in this city.

At the conclusion of Dr. Talcott's address the Chairman, Dr. Bissell, addressed the meeting and appointed the following committee on attendance: Drs. C. Spencer Kinney, E. Hasbrouck and Maurice C. Ashley.

The Chair also appointed the following gentlemen as a Board of Censors: Drs. E. E. Snyder, of Binghamton; C. Spencer Kinney, of this city.

The Secretary, Dr. John L. Moffat, of Brooklyn, then read the minutes of the last meeting which was held at Albany, February 13th, 1894.

There being no objections the Board of Censors, through its Chairman, Dr. Snyder, of Binghamton, then read a number of applications for membership in the society and upon motion they were elected.

The Bureau of Health, consisting of Drs. J. W. Candee, H. W. Hoyt, and B. S. Keator, was then called for a report, and Dr. Candee read a paper on "The Garbage Question." The subject dealt largely with the disposal of the garbage of New York and Brooklyn. The danger to public health arising from throwing the same into the sea, and from the burial of garbage, was fully exposed, and the question of establishing crematoriums for the disposal of refuse matter was freely discussed. The question of disinfection was touched upon, as was the possibility of reducing garbage and refuse into fertilizers by various methods of extraction.

The privileges of the floor were then granted to all physicians present who were not members of the society, and the paper read by Dr. Candee was discussed.

A recess was then taken for lunch, termed by Dr. Talcott, whose guests the doctors were, a "Swedish Smorgasbord."

The doctors whose names were registered at 1:30 o'clock were: Rochester—Elmer J. Bissell, J. M. Lee, Edwin H. Walcott.

Buffalo—Fred D. Lewis, Lewis A. Bull, A. R. Wright, DeWitt G. Wilcox.

Brooklyn—W. C. Lattimer, John L. Moffat, Mrs. W. C. Lattimer, Mrs. E. Willis, H. D. Schenck, Alton R. Warner, E. Hasbrouck, Ella M. Martin, H. Willis.

MONHAGENS AT SCRANTON.

A Safe and Pleasant Trip and a Hearty Welcome to the Electric City—Programme for Their Entertainment.

From a Special Correspondent.

SCRANTON, Sept. 24.—We arrived here promptly on Sept. 24 at 4:20 this afternoon, after a most delightful trip through a country new to most of the members of the company, and which abounded in objects of interest. A more perfect day for such a journey could not have been imagined.

We fared well on our journey. Seeholzer's lunch was served at 12:30, and we did ample justice to it. Then cigars were passed. There were lots of them for all and some to spare, for the company had been remembered by Jacob Gunther, W. J. McIlvaine, and Assistant Chiefs Higham and Schmitt.

At Hancock Junction we were joined by Alderman Greene, D. J. Stowe, of Crystals, also met us at the Junction to give us a safe conduct into and through Pennsylvania. William Collins, of Hancock, also accompanied us.

Time was not allowed to hang heavily on our hands for "Bob" Vail, whose capacities as a fun maker are known to many Middletowners, kept things lively all the way here.

Crystal Hose, with Bauer's Band, which accompanied Capt. Rockwell's company to Middletown, when it participated in the opening of Midway Park, was waiting for us and escorted us to the truck house, where we were welcomed to Scranton and extended the freedom of the city by Mayor Connell, while President Newman, of Crystals, spoke words of hearty welcome for the members of that company. Responses were made by Mayor Stansbury and President Hornbeck, of Monhagens.

These formalities over we marched to the Westminister, "the parlor hotel of Scranton," which is to be our headquarters, where supper was served, Mine Host Truman fairly outdoing himself.

There are just eighty members and guests here, and when the rest of the "gang," who are coming on the night line get here, to-morrow morning, there will be close to a hundred of us, and we will own a large part of this large town.

Our dog "Jim," that we brought along as a sort of mascot, is a great hit.

As you will see by the following programme for our entertainment, time isn't likely to hang heavy on our hands:

SEPT. 24TH
4:20 p. m.—Reception of Company and Welcome Address by Hon. W. J. Connell, Mayor of City.
6:00 p. m.—Supper at Westminister.
7:00 p. m.—Meet at Crystal Engine House to Visit Coal Mines.
9:30 p. m.—Visit Blast Furnace and Steel Mills.

SEPT. 25TH
7:00 to 9:00 a. m.—Breakfast.
9:00 to 11:00 a. m.—Visiting Different Points of Interest about the City in Electric Cars or Carriages.
11:30 a. m.—Dinner.
1:30 p. m.—Report at Crystal Engine House to take part in annual parade.
4:00 p. m.—An informal reception at the Municipal Building by Mayor and City Council.
5:00 p. m.—Supper.
5:30 p. m.—Banquet at Westminister to Monhagens and guests. "Owls" meet to attend picnic of Volunteer Firemen's Association.

SEPT. 26TH
9:00 a. m.—Test of steamer at Court House Square.
Time is up. I'm off for the coal mine. "BUDDIE."

KILLED BY AN ELECTRIC CAR.

The electric road has been in operation in this city for several months and until last night no accident of any consequence had occurred and in this case the railway company was not at fault, for the motorman and conductors are careful that every possible precaution is taken to prevent accident.

In this case, however, the horse used by Will Courtwright in his butcher business at Mechanietown, while unmanageable, ran directly in front of the construction car a short distance this side of the Hulse farm switch, about 6:30 o'clock, last evening, and was killed.

Mr. Courtwright was thrown from the wagon and was cut on the forehead and on the cheek and had his right shoulder dislocated.

The patrol wagon was called out and took Mr. Courtwright to Thrall Hospital where he is being cared for. His condition is not at all serious.

"CHARLEY'S AUNT"

A Great Comedy Success the Next Casino Attraction

The comedy success, "Charley's Aunt," will be presented, on Monday next, at the Casino. This is the same breezy comedy that ran for over 300 nights at the Standard Theatre, New York, and 100 nights in Boston. Being the most laughable and ludicrous of comedies, it is without peer as a mirth-provoking entertainment. "Charley's Aunt" was originally produced in London but it has been revised for America by the author, Arthur Brandon Thomas, and has made the greatest comedy hit for years. The plot is pure and simple and you are sure to laugh.

Last Excursion of the Season.

Don't forget the Mary Powell excursion Wednesday, Sept. 26th, for the benefit of Thrall Hospital. Special train leaves Wickham avenue 7:10 a. m., Main street 7:12 a. m. Fare $1 round trip.

INCIDENTS AND HAPPENINGS IN GOSHEN.

The Electric Road Franchise—Firemen's Visit to Warwick—Harvest Home Festival—Other Notes.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

—The Board of Trustees at its next meeting will grant a franchise to the Middletown-Goshen Traction Co., allowing it to enter the village as far as Chardavoyne's livery stables on Grand street.

—The Vigilant B. B. C., of this village, defeated the Phillipsburgh club on its own grounds, last Saturday, by a score of 11 to 7.

—Weather permitting, a large crowd will accompany the Elliotts to Warwick, Thursday, to "take in" the firemen's parade. Only sixty-five cents will be charged for the round trip. The train leaves Goshen at 8:15 a. m.

—There will be a harvest home festival at the M. E. Church, Friday evening, Sept. 28. The seasons will be impersonated, and there will also be musical and literary exercises. Supper will be served from 6 to 10 p. m. Admission only five cents.

—Regular meeting of Orange Lodge, I. O. O. F., to-night. The third degree will be worked on a candidate.

"The Taming of the Shrew."

A good audience listened to Hannibal A. Williams's rendering of "The Taming of the Shrew," at the First Baptist Church, last night. Some parts of the play were very well impersonated, but the entertainment as a whole was far from satisfactory. Mr. Williams wearied the ears and exhausted the patience of his hearers by mumbling the words spoken by some of the characters, his idea being apparently that by so doing he was sharply distinguishing the different characters. Very few in the audience regretted that he eliminated the fifth act and closed his impersonations with the fourth.

Real Estate Notes.

—A. V. Boak, real estate agent, has sold for Mr. George W. Brink his modern residence, No. 91 Highland avenue, to Mr. E. G. Medrick, of this city. Mr. Brink takes in part payment three fine building lots on East Broadway, upon one of which he expects to build soon. Mr. Medrick will offer the house, 91 Highland avenue, to let after Oct. 1st.

The Benson Trout Spearing Case

The case of Henry C. Benson, charged by Game Protector Green, with having speared two trout in the Beaverkill at Rockland, in July last, is being tried, to-day, before Justice Darbee and a jury at Rockland. Recorder Bradner appears for Mr. Benson and John F. Anderson for the people.

Turf and Horse Notes.

—Mr. Joseph Gavin, of Chester, has sold his bay mare, Tilly Almont, for $500. She was sired by a son of Electioneer, dam by Almont, a son of Alexander's Abdallah, sire of Goldsmith Maid, 2:14.

Prisoners Taken to Albany.

Officer Tyrell started, this morning, via the O. and W., at 8:05, for Albany Penitentiary, having in charge the three tramps who were sent there by Recorder Bradner, yesterday, for participating in the scrap at the Summit, Sunday.

FALL STYLES!

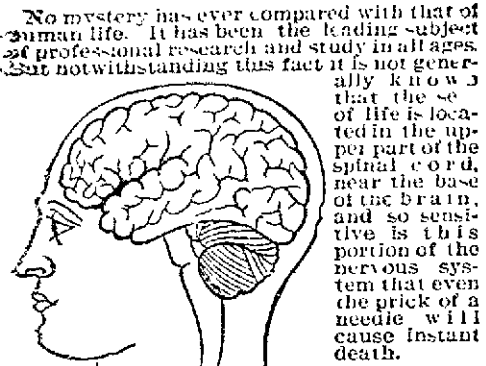

The fashionable sack coat will be the single breasted 3 or 4 button cutaway sack. Average 31 inches in length, and though it will but slightly define the back, seen in profile it will follow the side of the form quite closely. This is a decided change from the style of last season, and will enable any one easily to distinguish the fashionable from the unfashionable sack. The materials for these suits that will find most favor are the mixed suitings of the Scotch cheviot order. Our assortment of these is large, ranging from $12.50 to $20.

MYSTERIES!

The Nervous System the Seat of Life and Mind. Recent Wonderful Discoveries.

No mystery has ever compared with that of human life. It has been the leading subject of professional research and study in all ages. Notwithstanding this fact it is not generally known that the seat of life is located in the upper part of the spinal cord, near the base of the brain, and so sensitive is this portion of the nervous system that even the prick of a needle will cause instant death.

Recent discoveries have demonstrated that all the organs of the body are under the control of the nerve centers, located in or near the base of the brain, and that when these are deranged the organs which they supply with nerve fluid are also deranged. When it is remembered that a serious injury to the spinal cord will cause paralysis of the body below the injured point, because the nerve force is prevented by the injury from reaching the paralyzed parts, it will be understood how the derangement of the nerve centers will cause the derangement of the various organs which they supply with nerve force.

Two-thirds of chronic diseases are due to the impeded action of the nerve centers at the base of the brain, not from any derangement of the organs, but from the derangement of the nerve centers. The great mistake of physicians in treating these diseases is that they treat the organs rather than the nerve centers which are the cause of the trouble.

DR. JAMES C. MILES, the celebrated specialist, has profoundly studied this subject for over 22 years, and has made many important discoveries in connection with the nervous system. The facts contained in the following statement, and that the ordinary method of treatment are wrong. All headaches, dizziness, deafness, confusion, pressure, blues, nervous melancholy, nervous prostration, nervous disease, and all nervous diseases no matter how caused. The wonderful success of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is due to the fact that it is based on the foregoing principle.

DR. MILES' RESTORATIVE NERVINE is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by Dr. Miles Medical Co., 120 N. 2nd St., St. Louis, Mo., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It contains neither opiates nor dangerous drugs.

You shouldn't have stood in the doorway, dear. Looking, this time, at the intended to hear of how you hated to go.

If you really hated to hasten away, Why didn't you stay?

You shouldn't have taken my eyes in your eyes. The thing me through and through, Nor should you have shaken my soul with surprise.

Unless you wanted me too! Your eyes of blue, my longing believed. Dear, was I deceived?

MAGGIE'S GHOST.

The late Creed Haymond, chief counsel of the Southern Pacific, could hardly be called a dabbler in the occult or a believer in things supernatural, and yet, as his intimate friends will remember, he did believe implicitly that he had seen one ghost.

The story—for there was a romance, and a tragic one, connected with this ghost—was not one that the lawyer cared to tell, except to those who enjoyed his personal confidence. He did not like to be charged with superstitious fancies, nor did he appreciate attempts to ridicule him out of his faith in the evidence of his own keen eyes. To his death he maintained firmly that it had been his fortune to meet face to face the spirit of one who had passed from life.

It was early in the fifties when Haymond, then a stranger in California, became an express rider. He used to make regular trips into the mountains, visiting the camps at stated intervals, carrying in his big saddlebags letters, papers and such small articles as could be transported in this way.

On one of his first trips away up in the Sierra he came to an almost deserted camp, where a rich strike had been made and the pocket quickly exhausted. Only one family had remained—that of a man named Rodden. In a small, comfortable house close against the wall of rock which rose behind the camp a light was burning as Haymond rode into the deserted place. A knock at the door brought forth the occupant. To Haymond's request for lodgings the man growled a surly response and reluctantly let him in.

The express rider was surprised to see sitting beside the little table, on which stood the lamp, a young and pretty woman. He was surprised to recognize in her a schoolmate whom he had supposed to be still safe in her eastern home. After their greetings had been said Haymond explained to the ungracious husband how he had known Mrs. Rodden back east. Rodden granted some response, but Haymond and the woman were too busy asking and answering questions to heed his manner. The man seemed relieved by Haymond's departure the next day. He told the express rider to call whenever he was passing over the trail, and the woman urged him to come again and stop for the night, that they might talk about people and things at home.

It was more than a month before he again came to the deserted camp, and this time, reaching it at an earlier hour, he found the woman alone, her husband having not yet returned from his work. Haymond learned from her that she had married Rodden against the wishes of her family and had come to the mine with him without letting her parents know where she had gone. She said little about her life in the mountains, but that little showed that it had not been a happy one. They had come to the camp with a number of others, but some quarrel had arisen between her husband and the rest of the miners, so when they moved on he had remained behind, and by hard work was making fairly good pay in the deserted diggings. She did not say a word of the place, but, with a faint sigh, said she hoped before long to be able to move on to some camp where they would have company.

Haymond made two trips more, calling each time at the cabin where his schoolmate lived. When leaving the second time, he told them that one trip more would be all he could make before the snow blocked the trail. Two or three times Haymond had suggested to Rodden that he take his wife to some settlement before winter shut them in, but had received no answer. He did not feel at liberty to say more, so with the promise to visit them on his return in a few weeks he mounted his horse and rode down the narrow trail.

A few steps took him out of sight of the cabin. He heard a faint call, and looking back saw Mrs. Rodden running down the trail after him. She waved her hand for him to return, and he rode back.

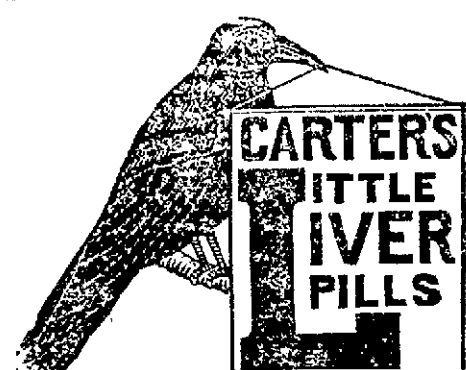

"Will you do an errand for me while you are in the city?" he said.

Of course he consented, and she gave him her commission, and with a few parting words she ran up the trail, while he turned his horse again to descend. He looked back after his friend, and, to his surprise, saw Rodden rise from behind a bush near the trail. He thought the man had been hidden, watching his wife, but a reflection made the idea seem absurd—probably it was a mere coincidence. Even if Rodden had heard every word of the conversation it could only have spoiled Mrs. Rodden's little plot, which was nothing worse than a Christmas surprise for her husband.

Haymond was detained a week longer than he had expected, and when he started for the mountains again his friends told him he would never get through, after a long battle with the snowdrifts, he reached the last camp on his route, having lost a week on the way.

It was almost night and snow and wind were in violent possession of the mountains when he found himself riding down the trail a mile or two above the camp where he was to pass the night with the Roddens.

Dusk came while he was still more than a mile from the cabin. He pressed on a few feet as he rode, when suddenly his horse stopped short with a snort and stood quivering. Haymond could see nothing, and soothing the animal with hand and voice urged him on. There was still light sufficient to see around clearly enough to distinguish objects near the trail. Haymond thought as he started again that he saw something move across the trail a little way ahead. The horse went slowly forward, but with great reluctance, and when they reached an open spot where the light was sufficient to show objects for some distance he again stopped, trembling, and Haymond for a moment could not persuade him to start. At last the horse started forward with a bound, and as he did so Haymond saw Maggie Rodden on the trail, her hair hanging around her pale face, her hands stretched pleadingly toward him, and an expression of mute agony upon her white face.

Reining up as quickly as possible, Haymond turned to speak to her, but she had vanished. He rode back and called her name, but there was no answer. He dismounted and looked for tracks at the spot where she must have left the trail, but found none.

Puzzled and annoyed, he mounted and rode as rapidly as possible to the Rodden cabin.

Hurriedly dismounting, Haymond called Rodden out and asked if he knew that his wife was wandering alone through the snow away up the mountain trail. Rodden was too much unnerved for a moment to reply. Then he managed to say that the express rider must have dreamed he saw her, as she had gone home, gone back east, more than a month before. Haymond struck to his story, but at last he was obliged to conclude that his imagination had played him a trick. He couldn't help wondering, though, what had frightened the horse.

There was nothing to be done or said, for if Mrs. Rodden had gone home a month before certainly she could not have been roaming around in the snow, and as there was no other woman within miles of the camp he must have been mistaken. Rodden, though not at all hospitable in manner, got supper and allowed the express rider to stop for the night.

After supper Haymond opened his saddlebags, saying:

"Well, as Maggie is not here to take her package, and as it was intended for you, anyway, I suppose I'd better give it to you, and you can write her that her Christmas present got here a little ahead of time."

He tossed the package across to the man, who stared at it as if petrified. He stretched out his hand slowly and opened it with shaking fingers. The package contained a pair of thick, warm gloves, nothing more.

"When did Maggie send for these?" he asked.

"The last time I was here. You came near getting them at all, for she had no chance to tell me to buy them while I was here and had to run after me to give the order."

"Was that all she ran after you for?" "That was all."

Haymond sat silent for awhile, then, finding that the man did not intend to speak, he concluded that the best thing he could do was to go to bed. He was soon sleeping and knew nothing more until the morning light, shining through the uncurtained window, awoke him.

He dressed hurriedly and went out into the room where he had left his horse. It was silent and deserted. A glance into the side room showed that the bed was unoccupied, and Haymond went out to look after his horse as well as to see if he could see any signs of his host. The horse had been stalled in a deserted cabin, and Haymond pushed open the door and then sprang back into the open air. Swinging by a halter from the rafters was Rodden's dead body.

Haymond cut the body down and laid it carefully in the bunk. He could do nothing for it, as the snow covered the frozen earth, so that one man could not hope to dig a grave. Hastily saddling his horse, he drove away, after searching the cabin in the faint hope that he might find some note of explanation, but in vain. Not a line of writing, new or old, could be found.

Haymond stopped at the first settlement and gave notice of the suicide at the deserted camp, but the snow was again falling, and no party could reach the place for weeks, if before spring.

When he reached the city, he wrote a letter to his parents asking them to break the sad news to the widowed Mrs. Rodden. Weeks passed before he received any answer, and then he was astounded to learn that Maggie had never returned home—in fact, had never even written since she left for California.

By this time spring had come, and he was about to make his first trip to the mountains. He reached the town where he had given notice of the suicide in time to learn what had been discovered at the lonely cabin.

A thorough search had been made, but nothing had been found to explain the suicide. Hidden away in one of the distant cabins they found Mrs. Rodden's clothing, her ornaments, even her workbasket, and, in fact, so far as they could judge, every article that had belonged to her.

Haymond told the men of the events of that last night and his interpretation of them, but he said nothing of his meeting with the wronged woman in the storm.

They argued that Rodden, jealous because his wife had gone down the trail after Haymond, in his anger had killed her. Filled with remorse when he learned how causeless the deed had been, he decided to die in the same way, as if the world knew of his crime.

That was Creed Haymond's one ghost story. Years passed before he could speak at all of that meeting in storm and darkness, but till the day of his death he believed that the spirit of murdered Mrs. Rodden had appeared to him on the trail.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

An Ulster County Enoch Arden—An English View of American Affairs—Effects of Seeing Things at Long Range.

Ulster county has an Enoch Arden case. Ten years ago, Katherine Crispell, of Old Hurley, married John Dearman. They began their life together on the Crispell farm, with good prospects, but did not get on well. Dearman often drank too freely, and when in his cups was ugly and abusive, and beat her so badly that several times she had him arrested and put in jail. About five years ago, learning that his wife had secured a warrant for his arrest on the old charge of abusing her, Dearman disappeared. Nothing was heard of him for a long time, and then Mrs. Dearman read in a newspaper of the finding of the body of a man in the Hudson at Roseton, near Newburgh. The description of the drowned man corresponded in many respects with that of her missing husband, and Mrs. Dearman went to Roseton, saw the coroner and physician, showed them a photograph of her husband and they, and all who had seen the body, were positive that it was that of the man whose lineaments were portrayed in the picture. Mrs. Dearman had the body disinterred, made a personal examination of it and was satisfied that it was that of her husband, all doubt being dissipated by the fact that two front teeth were missing. Some time afterwards, Mrs. Dearman married a man named Branthover, with whom she is now living, near Albany, comfortable and happy. The other day, John Dearman turned up in Old Hurley. When he found that his wife, whom he had deserted, was married again, he said he wasn't worthy of her, would make her no trouble and would leave matters as they were.

The New York Tribune claims to have found the following startling review of a recent situation in a religious paper printed in Leeds, England: "A big revolution is now going on in the United States of America, and there is little doubt that the government will be defeated. The dictator, Debs, has been driven from his palace, and he and his mistress are now hiding in the mountains. The greatest trouble has been experienced in the capital of Chicago, where Grover Cleveland has obtained complete control. The railroad at that point has been torn up and thrown into the Mississippi River, and the stockyard has been razed to the ground."

English ignorance of American affairs and American geography is proverbial, but the above extract is so very far off that it would be accepted as a burlesque were it not that religious papers are not supposed to perpetrate such jokes on their readers. Taking the extract seriously, it proves that while the long distance view may be lacking in historical accuracy, it gives a great deal in striking effects and sensational features.

A CHANGE FOR THE BETTER.

Marked Improvement in the Condition of Theodore W. Coleman.

A change for the better in the condition of Theodore W. Coleman, who fell from a scaffold in Grace Church, is reported to-day. The paralysis of his legs, which was at first complete, has partially disappeared from the thighs, and now extends only a little above the knee. His appetite has returned and he has partaken of food with relish.

His symptoms are now regarded as most favorable, and it is confidently expected that not only will he recover, but that he will regain the use of his limbs.

PREPARING FOR ELECTION.

Saturday the First Day of Registration—The Polling Places.

As will be seen by advertisement elsewhere, the inspectors of Election will meet, Saturday, Sept. 29th, in the several election districts as Boards of Registry. The other days for registration will be Oct. 6th, 13th, and 20th, and Nov. 3d. Personal registration is necessary.

The polling places designated in the advertisement are the same as last year, except in the First District of the Fourth Ward which is changed from the Silk building to 46 East Main street, next door to the office of the Prior Medicine Company.

The scrofulous taint which may have been in your blood for years, may be thoroughly expelled by giving Hood's Sarsaparilla a trial.

Important Facts.

If you have dull and heavy pain in the forehead and about the eyes; if the nostrils are frequently stopped and followed by a disagreeable discharge; if soreness in the nose and bleeding from the nostrils is often experienced; if you are very sensitive to cold in the head accompanied with headache then you may be sure you have catarrh; and should immediately resort to Ely's Cream Balm for cure. The remedy will give instant relief.

Large Attendance on the Public School—Fine Celery—The Welcome Rain—Many Personal and Local Notes.

The attendance in the primary department of the public school exceeds that of former years. It will be necessary to provide more seats if the number is increased, as the seating capacity of the room is already filled. This demonstrates the benefit that many will derive from the new school law.

The specimens of celery shown by Mr. Charles Loomis at the county fairs, held at Monticello, Ellenville and Newburgh received first premiums. Its unusual size caused many to wonder where and how it could be grown, some doubting that it was raised in dirt. Such people have only to visit Otisville and see for themselves. Mr. Loomis had also on exhibition his popular wagon brake.

Mrs. Horton Easton and Mrs. Bayea received a very pleasant call from Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Fay, Mrs. Gould and Mrs. U. K. Still and her daughter Clara, Saturday afternoon.

Plenty of rain at last, and just in time to prevent many from attending the Orange County fair. Considered from that standpoint it was unwelcome, but nearly every one and all vegetation can but rejoice.

Mr. and Mrs. Alsop W. Dodge, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Sharpe, of New York city, went, Tuesday, to Lake Mohunk, returning, Saturday. They report a very enjoyable time.

Miss Clara McBride, who has been spending some time with her aunt, Mrs. M. J. Green, has returned to her home in Jersey City.

Charles and Carrie Cockerell entertained a number of their young friends, Saturday afternoon. It was their birthday, and a number of gifts were presented to them as pleasant reminders of the day.
